Madison to pay 4.01% on $12M borrowed for water

BY BOB DEMAREE

With a State Revolving Fund loan interest rate of 4.01% secured, the city of Madison is moving closer to beginning work on the $13 million water infrastructure improvement project.

Brian Jackson, the city's utilities manager, told City Council at its meeting Tuesday the interest rate that had been anticipated to be 4.7%, so the lower rate will "save us quite a bit of money." Pre-closing for the $12 million SRF loan was Nov. 10 and Jackson said a final closing date "is still in the works and should be completed in a few weeks." The project is receiving $1 million from the county's American Rescue Plan funds.

Even with at interest rate of 4.01%, the cost has climbed significantly since the process began. The city had originally anticipated a 2% interest rate in the spring of this year but the process was slowed by a lawsuit concerning the rates to be charged to rural water company customers at Canaan, Dupont and Rykers Ridge and interest rates climbed during the delay.

City attorney Joe Jenner said that at the next Council meeting an amendment to the water rate ordinance will be introduced that should be reflective of the agreement reached with the three rural water companies. "We're finalizing the terms of that," he said.

Weber thanks community for recalling great memories

BY BOB DEMAREE

For a couple of days earlier this week fond memories from one of the great events in Madison history were brought back to life with the celebration of Stan Weber, the last living member of the Madison Cubs basketball team that won the 1950 State Championship.

Weber was presented a proclamation from Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb declaring him a Distinguished Hoosier at Tuesday's Madison City Council meeting and Mayor Bob Courtney presented Weber a key to the city, a flag that had flown over the city along with officially declaring Wednesday, Nov. 23, 2022, as Stanley McKay Weber Day.

On Wednesday afternoon, there was a special luncheon honoring Weber with basketball legend Bobby Plump as the guest speaker. Weber, who now lives in Georgia, was also honored Wednesday

Fire destroys 2 structures in Kent

SR 256 closed several hours during battle

BY BOB DEMAREE

A Tuesday afternoon fire destroyed two structures in Kent and closed State Road 256 for several hours while firefighters battled the blaze using thousands of gallons of water.

Both structures, located at 822 and 8231 West Kent State Road 256, are across State Road 256 from the Kent Volunteer Fire Department, and owned by Arlie Colvin. The family was living in the 8225 address but Kent Volunteer Fire Department Chief Brett Roberts said no one was living in the 8231 structure.

Although the fire is still being investigated, Roberts said it reportedly started in the southwest corner of the 8225 address after the son, Arlie Colvin II, had gone to the corner of his house to turn on an air compressor to inflate a tire on his van and "heard a loud pop then instantly the house started filling up with smoke." With the father, Arlie Colvin, disabled, Roberts said the son told him he immediately got his father out of the house.Within a few seconds after both were outside, the home was engulfed in flames.

Roberts said the house had "old lumber" that likely "didn't take much for it to go up in flames pretty quick. And there was just enough wind and the structures were close enough together" that the heat transferred to catch the porch of the house next door to expand the fire to there.

Roberts said firefighters were dispatched at 3:15 p.m. and battled the blaze for approximately eight hours before being called out four more times before early morning to reports that it had rekindled. One those times there was nothing found but the other three times — at 1 a.m., 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. — they actually had put out other fires in the structures. They also return on Thursday morning when the fire once again rekindled.

Roberts said approximately 250,000 gallons of water was used on the two structures. He said an aerial tower was brought from Madison Township Fire Department "because the secondary structure had fallen all into the basement so there wasn't a physical way to get to it from the ground so we needed to deploy something overhead to get water to it."

Roberts said there also were concerns about the fire expanding to another nearby house but the blaze was contained to the two structures. He noted the fire "kept transitioning to the west and the second structure caught on the fire, the next structure next of it is a residence that people live in. We were really

Former NKCAC employee charged with alleged sexual assault of client

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Kentucky State Police arrested a Grant County man on Tuesday in connection with the alleged sexual assault of a woman who applied for financial assistance through the nonprofit agency where he had worked for about a month.

The initial investigation by investigators with the KSP Post 5 at Campbellsburg, Kentucky, alleges that Logan Epperson, 27, of Jonesville, Kentucky, used an application for assistance/services completed by the victim at the Northern Kentucky Community Action Commission, 1014 Seminary Street, Carrollton, Kentucky, to obtain her address.

On Thursday Nov. 17, Epperson allegedly visited the victim's residence using the information he had obtained at the agency and once inside allegedly engaged in unwanted sexual contact including kissing her and touching her sexually against her will.

As a result of the investigation, KSP arrested Epperson on Tuesday and charged him with Sex Abuse 1st Degree and harassment. Epperson was lodged in the Carroll County Detention Center in Carrollton but is no longer listed as an inmate there.

According to a report by WDRB in Louisville, the Northern Kentucky Community Action Commission issued a statement on Wednesday afternoon concerning Epperson's

Scottsburg hunter, 94, dies in fall from tree stand

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Scott County man died Tuesday from injuries he sustained in a fall from a tree stand while hunting in the area of Taylor Road southwest of Scottsburg.

Indiana Conservation Officers are investigating the accident after emergency personnel were dispatched to the area of Taylor Road outside of Scottsburg on a call related to a deer hunter who had fallen from a homemade elevated stand when it collapsed for an unknown reason.

The hunter, Donald Cass, 94, of Scottsburg, was discovered by a fellow hunter. He was transported to Scott Memorial Hospital in Scottsburg and then airlifted to University of Louisville Hospital trauma center where he was pronounced dead.

Conservation officers said Cass was not wearing a full body safety harness. They said hunters using elevated platforms should always wear a full body harness, use a tree stand's safety rope, never try to put up or remove a tree stand by themself and always inspect their tree stand before climbing up into it.

Conservation officers were assisted at the scene by the Scott County EMS and the Vienna and Finley Township fire departments.

Garrett urges unified front on Hanover grant applications

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Hanover's Beautification Committee has cleared a blighted trailer park and begun developing the site into a community garden but the group has even bigger plans if it can latch onto some funding to make other improvements in the community.

Josh Ford, a member of that committee, told Hanover Town Board recently that the committee has discussed applying for funding through the Bethany Legacy Foundation to buy a new LED sign to promote community events, streets lights to improve lighting in some areas for walkers as well as provide a place to hang promotional banners and the development of additional flower beds at key points throughout the town.

"We want to proceed if we can find the funding and they have money," Ford said of the foundation created after the sale of King's Daughters' Health to Norton Healthcare.

He said the plan might take three phases to execute and some of the improvements are to make the community more safe and healthy while others are to beautify the town and provide a better sense of community and destination.

"We want to make this a place where you will want to raise your family," Ford said.

Ford was seeking the board's blessing and support of the parks or street department to help with watering the additional flower beds moving forward.

For the most part the board members liked Ford's ideas but Board President Kenny Garrett noted that the city already has a 5-year master plan addressing many of those needs — such as street lights and sidewalk improvements — and the town board also plans to seek funding through the Bethany Legacy Foundation as well as other grant funds that are available.

"All this stuff is included in our master plan," Garrett said, noting the city developed the plan not only as a vision for what Hanover wants and needs but as a tool for going after funding needed for those projects.

He asked Ford to continue developing the committee's goals and projects but to send all grant proposals through the town rather than the committee.

"I just ask that we do the grant work for you. We don't want to battle over the same funds," Garrett said. "We will also be applying to Bethany and the Community Foundation and we don't want to battle each other ... With the master plan it is so much easier to go after grants."

Ford said funding may exist to do both depending on which and how many sources are tapped.

"Don't sell yourself short when you can deliver twins instead of one baby," Ford noted.

In other business, the board:

- Authorized Garrett to research the costs of purchasing a good used or new utility vehicle for use at Hanover Park and a generator for use at the municipal building.

According to Garrett, the utility vehicle is needed to assist with set up of events and promotions as well as the growing youth league program at the park. He said a good used vehicle would handle the town's needs but that he would research other options as well.

The generator would provide a backup for essential services during power outages and about a 5,000-watt gas unit would be sufficient.

"I'm not asking for approval other than to just look into these," Garrett said.

The board authorized Garrett to see what he can find that serves the town's needs with spending limits of up to $10,000 on the utility vehicle and $800 on the generator.

- Reappointed Debbie Kroger as the Board's voting member on Southeastern Indiana Regional Planning Commission.
- Approved the purchase of a new town sign from Tim Harmon of Timbers Custom Signs at a cost of $3,754.
- Reported that fall leaf pickup will continue in Hanover over the next few weeks with no set schedule. Residents are asked to deposit their leaves to be picked up at curbs and the crew will get to them on their next pass.
- Approved the hiring of a new police officer for one day in December for the purpose of taking a physical abilities test required for employment.

The officer will then begin full-time employment after the holidays on Jan. 2, 2023.

In addition to the Kent and Madison Township fire departments, firefighters from Hanover, Deputy and North Madison 5 companies responded along with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department, Jefferson County Highway Department and Norton King's Daughters' Health EMS as traffic was diverted around the fire scene.

arrest, in which it said Epperson is no longer employed at the organization.

"NKCAC was deeply saddened to learn of the recently reported incident taking place in Carroll County involving its former employee, Logan Epperson. NKCAC has implemented multiple protocols, safeguards, and rules to help protect its clients and employees. As background, Mr. Epperson cleared NKCAC's rigorous pre-employment screening process and became an NKCAC employee approximately one month ago. His NKCAC employment proceeded without issue or difficulty until the recently reported incident.

"Although NKCAC steadfastly supports the presumption of innocence in criminal proceedings, Mr. Epperson's recent behaviors, if accurately reported and understood, occurred well outside the nature and scope of his NKCAC employment, violating multiple NKCAC policies and practices. The reported incident is unprecedented in NKCAC's more than 50 years of service to the Northern Kentucky region. NKCAC has reached out to the individual with whom Mr. Epperson reportedly interacted and Mr. Epperson's NKCAC employment has ended. NKCAC has fully cooperated with legal authorities reviewing this incident, and will continue to do so."

The investigation is ongoing.

WATER

At Monday's meeting of the Board of Public Works and Safety (BPWS), Mayor Bob Courtney had stated that a mediation agreement had determined new rates will be phased in for the three water companies over the next five years.

Jackson updated that contracts for the project were awarded at the Nov. 7 BPWS meeting Board of Public Works and Safety meeting. The total construction costs will be $10,987,675 with parts of the project being awarded to three contractors — Dave O'Mara Contractor at $4,543,000 for supply and treatment improvements, MW Cole Construction Inc. at $1,607,500 for storage tank rehabilitation and Brackney Inc. at 4,837,175 for water main replacements. Jackson said there will be an additional $1.7 million costs for engineering and accounting, bringing the overall project cost to $12.75 million.

Jackson said that will leave $242,000 for contingency funds. "Generally I like to have about 5% for contingency so we're kind of on the edge there," noting "there's always going to be something that happens that we will have change orders." He also said he is going to see what might be cut from the supply and treatment improvements. "That's a very large project and after speaking to the contractors on site they said there were some things that we could take out, and we could just rehab instead of replace, and that may save us a little money, but it's too early for that. But that's my goal," he said.

"I'm happy the bids in total came within budget. One was over, one was under, one was about right on," Courtney said. "According to the scope of the work we outlined, I don't believe we had to make any cuts with regards to the scope or any alternates."

Meanwhile, street superintendent Tony Sorrells provided updates on several projects.

He said the city is continuing to pick up leaves both on the hilltop and downtown with 176 tons collected so far, which is on pace with the typical 200 tons the city picks up annually. "It's a slow process, moving from pile to pile," he said, noting that it amounts to 100 miles going through the town at a pace of 5 mph. "We'll be working all next week then evaluate where to go." Sorrells said, adding there will be announcements made in local media "before the final pass" so community residents are aware "and can call so we'll sure to get them before we stop for the year."

He said city workers "have painted a lot of curbs this year and some parking stripes. I think we've painted almost every curb downtown" but fell short on getting all the parking stripes before the weather turned too cold.

Sorrells said approximately 125 American flags were replaced before Veterans Day on Main Street, at the bridge approach and in city parks.

He said that work on replacing three sidewalks areas in downtown Madison will be starting soon with three separate contractors doing the work including All Star Paving, Viars Excavating and Concrete, and Sedam Contractor.

"This fall project will be the first of several," Courtney added. "Our goal is to start attacking the worst-rated sidewalks for our asset management plan. So this will help address the majority of the worst rated ones. Once all those are done, we'll move on to the better sidewalks that still need improvement."

Sorrells said effective Jan. 1, the transfer station will accept checks only and no cash for payment. He's hopeful that credit/debit card capability will be established by then, but if not it should be shortly after that.

In the Council's only business, there was a first reading of an ordinance to amend the zoning map for 1229 West Main St. and 1326-1328 West Second St. to be rezoned from Medium Density Residential to Historic District Residential to allow those properties to be used as an Airbnb and event venue for a few weekends per year.

In public comments, Adam King, who lives in the Miles Ridge subdivision, spoke about the need to slow traffic there. "The road has turned into a speedway, it's unsafe, they're not stopping at stop signs, they're well over 20 mph, you can't hardly walk down the streets with your animals that you're basically walking into the grass," he said. "Miles Ridge is huge for people walking, walking with their animals, jogging but it's very unsafe."

Council member Joshua Schafer, who represents Council District 4 that includes the Miles Ridge subdivision, said that a poll on the Miles Ridge Facebook page indicated most residents agree that there is a speeding problem there.

Courtney suggested temporarily putting speeding apparatus there along with developing other tactics to counter the problem. However, he noted that speeding "is a problem all over the city. Pick a street any where downtown or on the hilltop."

Jenner suggested it's a matter that should go through the city's traffic committee to consider solutions before coming to City Council. "We have a traffic committee and these issues are frankly borne through that, and then come to the council for suggestion or the board of public works."

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On Nov. 26, 1950, China entered the Korean War, launching a counteroffensive against soldiers from the United Nations, the U.S. and South Korea.

ON THIS DATE:

In 1825, the first college social fraternity, the Kappa Alpha Society, was formed at Union College in Schenectady, New York.

In 1864, English mathematician and writer Charles Dodgson presented a handwritten and illustrated manuscript, "Alice's Adventures Under Ground," to his 12-year-old friend Alice Pleasance Liddell; the book was later turned into "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," published under Dodgson's pen name, Lewis Carroll.

In 1883, former slave and abolitionist Sojourner Truth died in Battle Creek, Michigan.

In 1917, the National Hockey League was founded in Montreal, succeeding the National Hockey Association.

In 1941, U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull delivered a note to Japan's ambassador to the United States, Kichisaburo Nomura (kee-chee-sah-boor-oh noh-moo-rah), setting forth U.S. demands for "lasting and extensive peace throughout the Pacific area." The same day, a Japanese naval task force consisting of six aircraft carriers left the Kuril Islands, headed toward Hawaii.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt ordered nationwide gasoline rationing, beginning Dec. 1.

In 1943, during World War II, the HMT Rohna, a British transport ship carrying American soldiers, was hit by a German missile off Algeria; 1,138 men were killed.

In 1973, President Richard Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, told a federal court that she'd accidentally caused part of the 18-1/2-minute gap in a key Watergate tape.

In 1986, President Ronald Reagan appointed a commission headed by former Sen. John Tower to investigate his National Security Council staff in the wake of the Iran-Contra affair.

In 2000, Florida Secretary of State Katherine Harris certified George W. Bush the winner over Al Gore in the state's presidential balloting by a 537-vote margin.

In 2008, teams of heavily armed Pakistani gunmen stormed luxury hotels, a popular tourist attraction and a crowded train station in Mumbai, India, leaving at least 166 people dead in a rampage lasting some 60 hours.

In 2020, Americans marked the Thanksgiving holiday amid the coronavirus pandemic, with many celebrations canceled or reduced; Zoom and FaceTime calls connected some families with those who didn't want to travel.

Ten years ago: Israeli Defense Minister Ehud Barak abruptly quit politics, saying in a surprise announcement, "I feel I have exhausted my political activity, which had never been a special object of desire for me." New Jersey Republican Gov. Chris Christie announced that he would be seeking re-election, so he could continue to guide the state through a recovery from Superstorm Sandy.

Five years ago: Congressman John Conyers of Michigan gave up his leadership position as the top Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee, while denying allegations that he had sexually harassed female staff members. Amid allegations that he had groped women in the past, Minnesota Democratic Sen. Al Franken said he felt "embarrassed and ashamed," but that he looked forward to gradually regaining the trust of voters. (Franken announced less than two weeks later that he was resigning from Congress.)

One year ago: A World Health Organization panel classified a new COVID-19 variant as a highly transmissible virus of concern, and named it "omicron" under its Greek-letter system. The United States, Canada, Russia and a host of other countries joined the European Union in restricting travel for visitors from southern Africa. Stephen Sondheim, the songwriter who reshaped the American musical theater in the second half of the 20th century, died at his Connecticut home at the age of 91.

Today's Birthdays: Impressionist Rich Little is 84. Singer Tina Turner is 83. Singer Jean Terrell is 78. Pop musician John McVie is 77. Actor Marianne Muellerleile is 74. Actor Scott Jacoby is 66. TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On Nov. 28, 1942, fire engulfed the Cocoanut Grove nightclub in Boston, killing 492 people in the deadliest nightclub blaze ever. (The cause of the rapidly spreading fire, which began in the basement, is in dispute; one theory is that a busboy accidentally ignited an artificial palm tree while using a lighted match to fix a light bulb.)

ON THIS DATE:

In 1520, Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan reached the Pacific Ocean after passing through the South American strait that now bears his name.

In 1919, American-born Lady Astor was elected the first female member of the British Parliament.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet leader Josef Stalin began conferring in Tehran during World War II.

In 1961, Ernie Davis of Syracuse University became the first African-American to be named winner of the Heisman Trophy.

In 1964, the United States launched the space probe Mariner 4 on a course toward Mars, which it flew past in July 1965, sending back pictures of the red planet.

In 1979, an Air New Zealand DC-10 en route to the South Pole crashed into a mountain in Antarctica, killing all 257 people aboard.

In 1990, Margaret Thatcher resigned as British prime minister during an audience with Queen Elizabeth II, who then conferred the premiership on John Major.

In 1994, serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer was slain in a Wisconsin prison by a fellow inmate. Sixties war protester Jerry Rubin died in Los Angeles, two weeks after being hit by a car; he was 56.

In 2001, Enron Corp., once the world's largest energy trader, collapsed after would-be rescuer Dynegy Inc. backed out of an $8.4 billion takeover deal. (Enron filed for bankruptcy protection four days later.)

In 2016, the first commercial flight from the United States to Havana in more than 50 years arrived in Cuba as the island began week-long memorial services for Fidel Castro.

In 2018, Democrats overwhelmingly nominated Nancy Pelosi to become House speaker when Democrats took control of the House in January.

In 2020, Pennsylvania's highest court threw out a lower court's order preventing the state from certifying dozens of contests on its Nov. 3 election ballot; it was the latest lawsuit filed by Republicans attempting to undo President-elect Joe Biden's victory in the battleground state. Sarah Fuller became the first woman to participate in a Power Five conference football game when she kicked off for Vanderbilt to start the second half at Missouri.

Ten years ago: New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie said his state would need nearly $37 billion to recover and rebuild from Superstorm Sandy and that the state would seek federal aid to cover most of the expenses.

Five years ago: A Libyan militant was convicted in federal court in Washington of terrorism charges stemming from the 2012 Benghazi attacks that killed the U.S. ambassador and three other Americans, but the jury found Ahmed Abu Khattala not guilty of murder. (Khattala was sentenced the following June to 22 years in prison.) Jay-Z led the 2018 Grammy Award nominations as the top four categories were heavily dominated by rap and R&B artists.

One year ago: The Netherlands confirmed 13 cases of the new omicron variant of the coronavirus, while Australia and Canada each found two. Israel barred entry to all foreign nationals as countries around the world scrambled to slow the spread of the new variant. Lee Elder, who broke down racial barriers as the first Black golfer to play in the Masters, died in Escondido, California; he was 87. Carrie Meek, one of the first Black Floridians elected to Congress since Reconstruction, died at her Miami home at 95. Virgil Abloh, a leading designer whose groundbreaking fusions of streetwear and high couture made him one of the most celebrated tastemakers in fashion and beyond, died of cancer at 41.

Today's Birthdays: Recording executive Berry Gordy Jr. is 93. Former Democratic Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado is 86. Former U.S. Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross is 85. Singer-songwriter Bruce Channel is 82. Singer Randy Newman is 79. CBS News correspondent Susan Spencer is 76. Movie director Joe Dante is 75. Former "Late Show" orchestra leader Paul Shaffer is 73. Actor Ed Harris is 72. Former NASA astronaut Barbara Morgan is 71. Actor S. Epatha (eh-PAY'-thah) Merkerson is 70. Former Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff is 69. Country singer Kristine Arnold (Sweethearts of the Rodeo) is 66. Actor Judd Nelson is 63. Movie director Alfonso Cuaron is 61.

CUB

evening during the annual Turkey Shootout between the Cubs and Rebels at Connor K. Salm Gymnasium.

"There have been many great teams and many great athletes throughout the years of Madison Cub history, but there are none like the 1950 Madison Cubs state championship team," Courtney said. "Long before there was class basketball, that decade between 1940 and 1950 was certainly the golden era for Madison Cub basketball. So, congratulations and welcome to Stan Weber."

"I'm representing not only myself and my family but I am representing the players" on the 1950 state championship team "that aren't here," Weber said, addressing the Council on Tuesday. "But their memories are very strong to me and with many others here in this community. We were very proud of what we did."

Weber also wanted to make sure the accomplishments of the 1949 Cubs who "did extremely well" finishing as state runner-up and losing by just one point to Jasper in the final game, aren't forgotten. Two players from that team — Ed Orrill and Dee Monroe — are still living. "They were both inspirational to me and to us for what we were able to accomplish in 1950. Madison, you don't want to forget those guys either."

Weber, who was a high school coach and teacher from 1958-1989, said he was also representing "all the players that played for me for 28 years in seven different schools throughout the state of Indiana. For what they accomplished, I am very proud of all of them."

A 1951 graduate of Madison High School,

Bob Demaree

Stan Weber enjoys a moment during Wednesday's luncheon held in his honor as part of "Stanley McKay Weber Day" on Wednesday that recognized him as the last living member of the 1950 state championship Madison Cubs basketball team.

Bob Demaree

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney (left) congratulates Stan Weber at Tuesday's Madison City Council member as he presents him with the proclamation that declared Wednesday as "Stanley McKay Weber Day" while Weber's wife, Martha, watches on.

Weber said he is particularly appreciative of "the people here in Madison, my hometown," and the honor given by Mayor Bob Courtney and the City Council.

During his career as a high school basketball coach, Weber posted a 409-230 career record that included stops at Southwestern, Austin, Vevay, Noblesville, South Ripley, Mitchell and Brownstown Central. He won six sectionals — including one each at Southwestern, South Ripley and Mitchell and three at Brownstown — and coached two Indiana All-Stars including 1974 Indiana Mr. Basketball Steve Collier at Southwestern and 1986 All-Star Jeff Morning at Brownstown.

During his eight years at Southwestern, Weber had a 126-56 record including a 62-11 in his last three seasons. Before going to Southwestern, he coached five years at Austin and two years at Vevay. He left Southwestern in 1973 to coach at Noblesville. In the 1980s, he coached at Brownstown for seven years where he was 109-50.

"It is remarkable to be able to recognize the contributions of Stan Weber, and contributions that he has made not only to the city of Madison and Madison Cub basketball, but you have a lot of friends and family who still love you here in Madison, from the city of Madison, the town of Hanover, Hanover College, Jefferson County and all throughout the state," Courtney said.

In presenting the Distinguished Hoosier award, State Rep. Randy Frye told Weber, "It's such a great honor to be here and have a chance to meet you … If you've put out the effort that it takes to win a state championship it's far beyond what you ever dreamed you could do."

Plump, who hit the last-second shot that gave Milan the 1954 state basketball championship over Muncie Central, was the guest speaker at Wednesday's luncheon, and told the story of the Indians' journey to that title. He gave the credit for Milan's success to its coach Marvin Wood as "the reason we won the championship." Plump said Wood looked for the best source for insights to make the Indians a better team. "If he didn't know the answer he went to find it" while successfully utilizing its full court trap zone and half court trap zone defense, and four corners offense.

"That's history and I've enjoyed it ever since," said Plump, of the championship that was later the inspiration for the 1986 movie, "Hoosiers." He noted that eight of the 12 players from that 1954 Milan team are still alive, along with Marvin Wood's wife, Mary Lou, who Plump said he will always remember her comment "that it's nice to be important but it's more important to be nice."

Don "Beaver" Server, a 1973 Southwestern High School graduate, who played for Weber while he coached for the Rebels, said "next to my parents, he was the most influential guy in my life.

"Coach Weber's practices and his leadership were more than just basketball," Server said. "It was about life lessons that were instilled in us, and remain with us since our high school days. Basketball was important and winning was our goal but it wasn't above behaving as great young men who were expected to display the highest degree of manners, respect for our family, team, school and country. Everything he did was about making us better on and off the court."

Server called Weber "a great human being" who helped his players to successful lives. "He was such a tremendous influence on those lives that he touched" and is "a man I respect as much as anybody I know."

Weber, in his comments at the luncheon, noted: "The thing that means the most to me is to see my former players doing well, being successful, enjoying their lives and having great families and great careers themselves."

Weber said he will always be thankful for being part of the 1950 state championship Cubs. "We had some great times, a wonderful time here. It's very sentimental for me to come back and be honored this way."

Although all of his teammates from the 1950 team are now gone, "I am sure they're smiling" knowing how meaningful that state championship remains to the residents of Madison.

Worried About Interest Rate Volatility? "Ladder up!"

Layin' it on the line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

If you are like many pre-retirees or retirees, you may be hesitant to purchase annuities because you worry you will enter the market at the wrong time and won't maximize your returns. An increasingly popular technique known as "annuity laddering" may help guard against this situation and make the transition to annuities much easier and less stressful for you.

Building an annuity ladder means that you purchase a series of annuities over time instead of dumping a lump sum into one annuity that locks you into one rate. With a ladder, you split your premium across multiple smaller annuities. For instance, maybe you decide to buy one annuity every two years for the next ten years. Or you buy one annuity per year for the next five years.

The annuity ladder strategy has several advantages.

The first advantage is that you don't have all your eggs in one basket. By diversifying your annuities, you are less susceptible to the fluctuations of the market.

The second advantage is that you can take advantage of changes in interest rates. When interest rates rise, you can purchase annuities that have not yet been affected by the market change.

The third advantage is that you can ladder annuities with different payouts. For example, you could buy an annuity with a term period of 5 years, the next year buy another 5-year term period, and up the ladder, you go. When you use the annuity as income, when one matures, simply start converting them to an income stream. Income periods can be any length you wish, even a lifetime. This way, you would have a stream of income that would last for the rest of your life.

Laddering annuities can be a great way to secure your financial future. By diversifying your annuities, you can protect yourself from market fluctuations and take advantage of changes in interest rates. By laddering annuities with different payouts, you can ensure that you have a stream of income that lasts for the rest of your life.

Annuity laddering can help you manage risk. By laddering annuities with different maturity dates, you create a "spread" that can protect you against interest rate risk.

Since predictions of whether interest rates will go up or down are, at best-educated guesses, an annuity ladder lets you bet on both scenarios. A ladder may increase your chances of earning more when rates go up or smooth out losses if rates go down.

There are many different ways to build annuity ladders for yield, including fixed-rate ladders using multi-year guaranteed annuities (MYGAs). You can also use a "mixed-fix" approach combining MYGAs and fixed–index annuities. Deferred multi-year ladders work in a somewhat similar fashion to certificates of deposit (CDs).

Another approach is the deferred multi-year annuity ladder. You take a lump sum to purchase several small annuities in a deferred multi-year annuity ladder, each with a different maturity date. As each annuity matures, you either roll it over into a new annuity or convert it to income.

Creating an annuity ladder may not work for everyone. Still, it is worth bringing up with your retirement advisor, especially if you find yourself considering adding Safe Money products to your portfolio.

Wild ending propels Rebels to Turkey Shootout win

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

David Campbell

The Southwestern Rebels celebrate with the Old Oaken Bucket after beating Madison 60-59 on Wednesday. The win was the Rebels' fourth in the past five years in the rivalry.

Nearly half an hour after the final buzzer had sounded and most fans had left the gym, Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum was still trying to come to grips with the wild ending he had just witnessed on the floor. But he was happy to come out on the winning side.

"It was just a fun game for everybody to come out and watch. And both of us are going to get better from this game," Nussbaum said. "It's sad that one team had to lose. Obviously, I'm glad that we won. And I'm happy that they kept fighting back and they they never gave up."

Southwestern battled back from six points down with less than two minutes to play to stun Madison 60-59 on Wednesday in one of the wildest finishes in the long history of the Turkey Shootout.

The host Cubs led virtually the entire second half and a free throw by Quincy Reynolds staked Madison to a 53-47 lead with 1:46 to play. Southwestern hit four free throws and Madison two over the next minute and the Cubs' lead was cut to 55-51 with 53 second to go.

Southwestern senior Peyton Gwin then hit the first of his two huge 3-pointers in the final minute to pull the Rebels to within one with 47 seconds to go and, after the two teams traded baskets, Gwin drained a second trey while trying to draw contact to push Southwestern ahead 59-58 with 14 seconds left.

"I was absolutely trying to draw a foul," Gwin said with a smile. "Whenever I first shot it, I thought they might call a foul for me. And then I thought I saw it go in."

What followed was a wild sequence in which both teams had a chance to pull out the win. Madison set up for what it hoped would be the winning points, but the Cubs turned the ball over with seven seconds to go. In his desperation to stop the clock, Madison's Gunner Jones shoved Southwestern's Brady Cook out of bounds, drawing an intentional foul with just one-tenth of a second left on the clock.

The call should have ended the game, but Southwestern was whistled for a technical foul at the same time after the Rebels' Daylan Konkle left the bench, celebrating what he thought was the end of the game and win. Nussbaum argued that call and the action was stopped as officials tried to sort out the details.

"I lost my cool and I want to apologize to everybody involved because I don't want to be that type of person," Nussbaum said. "That's not who I want to be."

Eventually, Cook went to

Madison girls pull away for 11th straight Victory Bell win

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

David Campbell

Madison defeated Southwestern 56-30 on Wednesday in the girls portion of the Turkey Shootout to win the Victory Bell trophy for the 11th straight year.

For two quarters, Southwestern's girls did everything they could to put itself in position to spring the upset and end its long losing streak to Madison. But the Cubs ended those hopes quickly.

Madison closed the first half with a short 7-2 run and then outscored Southwestern 17-0 in the third quarter to run away for the 56-30 win in the annual Victory Bell game in the girls half of Wednesday's Turkey Shootout at Madison.

The Cubs dominated every phase of the game in the second half. After leading by just eight with three minutes left in the second quarter, Madison outscored the Rebels 35-17 the rest of the way despite an 8-2 Southwestern run at the end of the game.

"Our kids are skilled enough and shoot the ball well enough that we know we can get it going at any time. I just thought Southwestern was ready to go and I though they played super hard," Madison coach Adam Dennis said. "We got out-rebounded tonight and that's the first time that has happened this year. So I think they did an outstanding job of playing hard and making things hard for us."

Madison (5-1) never trailed in the game but it spent the entire first half trying to break free from the Rebels. The Cubs went on a 10-0 run in the first quarter to open a 12-2 lead, but then only led 14-9 early in the second quarter.

It was from the bench that Madison got spark it needed to take control. Senior Breck Ralston entered the game late in the first quarter and hit a pair of free throws, but it was her 3-pointer early in the second that got the Cubs going. Freshman Juliana Davis added three baskets — including two in the final minute — and senior Cadence Traylor hit two shots as Madison took a 28-15 lead into halftime.

"This game was a big game for us and it was just an exciting time," Ralston said. "I love (coming off the bench). It's a big role. I just go out there and give it my all."

That mini-run at the end of the second quarter proved to be the difference in the game. Southwestern, which had played well despite trailing, suddenly found itself down by 13 and Madison was smelling blood in the water.

"I thought we played pretty well. We missed a lot of open shots early and if they fall down, it's a different game," Southwestern coach Brian Crank said. "(The run in the third) really hurt because we had the score down to seven or eight, then they get a three-point play and then back-to-back turnovers and baskets. It really changed everything."

Madison took no prisoners in the third quarter, scoring from all over the floor. Ralston hit two more 3-pointers in the frame, Traylor and Cam Cahall each added treys and Alaina Kelley scored a bucket with four seconds to go to push the margin to 30 (45-15) after three quarters. The lead reached 32 (54-22) before Dennis went to his bench.

No. 11 Hoosiers get past Little Rock 87-68

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMINGTON — The first shot Race Thompson took Wednesday night bloodied his left temple.

He spent the rest of the game counterpunching.

Thompson scored a season-high 20 points and had eight rebounds to help No. 11 Indiana beat Little Rock 87-68, finishing the game with a headband stained red from the inadvertent blow he took 11 1/2 minutes into the game.

"I don't even know (what happened)," the fifth-year senior said. "I think it was somebody's elbow, but I've got a real big gash."

The Hoosiers needed everything they could get out of Thompson especially wiht preseason All-American Trayce Jackson-Davis out because of a sore back and Jackson-Davis' replacement, Malik Reneau flirting with foul trouble through most of the second half.

Thompson delivered with a near-perfect night — making seven of eight shots and all six free throws to help the short-handed Hoosiers go 5-0 for the second straight season.

Reneau had 10 points and six rebounds, most in the first half. Xavier Johnson had nine points and 10 assists.

Myron Gardner, the reigning Ohio Valley Conference player of the week, had 14 points, nine rebounds and six assists for the Trojans. D.J. Smith scored 20 points to lead Little Rock (2-4), which has lost all three in the series and is 3-13 against Big Ten foes.

But they ran out of steam late.

" To compete and come back and really stick around the whole basketball game till the last seven or eight minutes. I thought it was something good to build on," Little Rock coach Darrell Walker said.

Indiana first seized control with a 15-5 run that started with a four-point possession when Thompson was inadvertently hit in the head by Gardner and Flagrant 1 was called. Thompson went to the locker room for medical attention and when the run ended, Indiana led 37-22.

But Little Rock cut the deficit to 39-30 at halftime and scored the first three points of the second half when Thompson donned a new headband. The Trojans stayed close until Indiana went on a 12-3 to rebuild 60-45 lead and after Little Rock again closed to seven, the Hoosiers sealed it with a 14-1 spurt.

"Race and Xavier were great tonight," Indiana guard Jalen Hood-Schifino said. "They made plays and really stepped up and led us tonight."

BIG PICTURE

Little Rock: Three days after rallying from an 18-point deficit to beat Jackson State, the Trojans gave Indiana an unexpectedly strong battle for 35 minutes. Little Rock is off to a solid start but coach Darrell Walker will have to wait till later this week to collect career win No. 100.

Indiana: Without Jackson-Davis and playing for the third time in six days, the Hoosiers struggled a bit to put this one way. But they never trailed, stayed in control most of the game and kept their perfect record intact.

Ralston and senior Casey Dyer led Madison with 13 points. Ralston was 4-of-7 from the floor — including 3-of-6 from 3-point range — and also had two assists and two steals.

Dennis said he loves the energy that Ralston brings coming off the bench, a role that many players don't embrace.

"I think she's comfortable. She's just done such a great job. She comes in and we can count on her to make some shots," Dennis said. "She's also been playing really good defense and does a really good job of complimenting Juliana and Cadence and really making it tough for teams to move the ball."

Madison shot 39% (22-for-56) from the floor and turned the ball over just seven times. Davis had 11 points and four steals while Traylor finished with nine points and two assists.

Other than junior Claudia Oliver, Southwestern (2-3) struggled to score. Oliver, an exchange student from Spain, scored 17 points and had eight rebounds, but no other player was close to double digits. The team's leading scorer, Ashley Fulton, managed just six points and Chloey Leach scored four as the rebels shot just 17% (7-of-30) from the floor and missed 15 of the 16 3-pointers that they attempted.

Despite the loss, Crank was pleased with his team's effort. The important thing now, according to the coach, is to regroup and get ready for a big matchup with Ohio River Valley Conference leader Shawe next week.

"Next Friday is very important. If you pull one out there, in your mind, you think you can beat anybody in the conference right now," Crank said. "And maybe, go out and get yourself a conference championship. It's all there in front of us."

Madison hosts Floyd Central on Tuesday then heads to East Central on Thursday. Southwestern faces Shawe as part of a boys-girls doubleheader in Hanover on Friday, Dec. 2.

the line to take his free throws, hitting one to put the Rebels up two, 60-58. Then, because of the technical foul, Madison got a chance to shoot two free throws, but Reynolds missed the first and hit the second, closing the gap back to one.

With just one-tenth of a second left on the clock, Madison had no realistic chance to get a final shot off in time. The Cubs inbounded the ball and hit the final shot, but the buzzer had already sounded.

While his team was on the losing end, Madison coach Adam Stotts was thrilled with the Cubs' energy.

"Every practice so far our defense has made some great plays. And for us, I think it really showed tonight. We played our butt off and took almost 10 charges," Stotts said. "I mean, we absolutely left it all on the floor. And these were five guys thagt have never played a varsity game for the most part, outside of Quincy, and I thought they did an absolutely phenomenal job."

The final two minutes overshadowed what was, for the most part, a poorly-played game. Madison committed 27 turnovers and missed 15 free throws — including nine in the fourth quarter — while Southwestern had 20 turnovers of its own and went 4-for-20 on 3-point attempts.

But despite the miscues, both coaches were pleased with the effort.

"For me, what's fun is I get to go watch the film and we're gonna see a lot of things that we can improve on, but we got the win and that makes it a whole lot easier to deal with," Nussbaum said. "I was really surprised how much their pressure man-to-man defense bothered us. We had way too many turnovers and they didn't trap or press. That's gonna have to be fixed. We got to take better shots. We got to find that next pass better. But young teams are like this. That's what's exciting: finding our own identity and seeing how much better we can get it."

"We made some situational basketball mistakes that we need to work on, but I've got confidence in all my guys. Learning that comes in time," Stotts said. "But overall, I think they they played their butt off and everything else a couple of times."

Jamison Lewis led Southwestern with 22 points to go with seven rebounds and seven assists while Gwin scored 14 points and had seven rebounds and Peyton Cloud had 10 points.

James Schafer had 15 points and 11 rebounds to pace Madison. Reynolds and Mason Davis scored 13 points each.

Both teams return to action next Friday with Madison hosting Jennings County and Southwestern hosting Shawe as part of a boys-girls doubleheader.

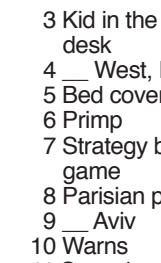
Holiday giving leads to abundance of angst



AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I am conflicted about gift-giving this holiday season.

I have traditionally bought gifts for my family (five adults and five children), my close friends and their children (they all buy me nice gifts too!).

I used to enjoy this, but now it just seems dauntingly expensive.

I am 62 and still working, but this year I have no real disposable income.

I mentioned to my mother that I kind of wanted to opt out of the gift-giving this year due to finances, and she said, "Why don't you then? Just tell everyone in the family that you don't want to exchange gifts this year."

The thing is, I am embarrassed to do that. It is hard for me to imagine being with my family on Christmas morning with everyone else giving gifts. I feel like it would be awkward or I will end up just feeling very depressed.

I can't skip the event because I take my parents (they are 89 and 90) and besides, I love my family and want to be with them.

I am an artist, and one Christmas a few years back, I had a similar situation with finances and I made everyone drawings. I don't feel like I can do that again, and haven't thought of anything else to make them (at least not yet).

I kind of wish our family would do that thing where we exchange names, and just buy one person a nice gift. But I don't want to change the culture of the family, for my own selfish reasons.

Any suggestions?

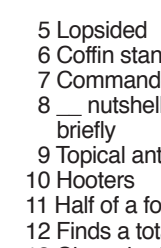
— Feeling Scroogey

Dear Scroogey: I'm with your mother regarding letting yourself off the hook entirely, but I also understand that this might not make the giving season satisfying for you.

You're lucky! You're an artist. You seem to think that because you gave drawings one time, you can't do it again.

You could do something similar and give one to each family, inscribed for them.

Sibling struggles can lead toward estrangement



AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I have three children in their 30s.

My oldest son (no. 1) and my daughter have been very angry at each other for over a year.

In my opinion, my daughter is maybe 70 percent responsible and number one son is 30 percent responsible. Neither will admit any fault or apologize.

Son no. 1 and his wife will be having their first baby in four months, and so far, he is saying that we can't tell our daughter.

We host birthdays and holidays at our house. I say invite them all and if they don't want to come, so be it.

Son no. 2 (who is not involved in this drama) is having a birthday, which we will celebrate at our home.

Son no. 1 won't come because our daughter is attending, but wants to host a later event for Son no. 2 (daughter won't be invited).

It looks like something similar is being proposed for Christmas.

I'm not interested in enabling this mess by attending second events at which my daughter isn't invited or by disinviting her.

I want to tell my daughter about the birth of our first grandchild.

My wife is more interested in doing what no. 1 Son wants.

In part this is because he lives a block from us, and my wife doesn't want him to take out his anger at us by not having us be close to their child. (He hasn't threatened this, but she is nervous.)

Any suggestions?

— Disgusted Dad

Dear Dad: I'm with you on this. You present Son no. 1 as being the primary powerhouse in perpetuating this unhealthy dynamic. In terms of your wife, I suggest that you both keep this in mind: Any time you make a decision based on fear, the outcome will not serve anyone well.

You should convey to all of your children — "We will continue to host events at home. As in the past, everyone in the family is always invited and welcome. But I will not attend multiple events because my children have decided to prolong an argument that should have been settled."

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Social events and outings can put you in the spotlight. The people you meet could have a galvanizing effect and encourage you to try something new. Showing off your talents might bring pleasure as well as profits.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Independent and original thinking is always a good idea. Freely expressing your strong authenticity, however, does not give you permission to be harsh or uncaring of the experiences and feelings of others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You may find that you are happiest and things operate most smoothly if you operate from a place of preparation and organization. This could be a good day to get some things back on track. Handle some timely tasks.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Buy some treats to indulge the whims of your special someone. Don't feel guilty about boldly expressing your feelings. Even if you're frustrated and tempted to teach a lesson, do not try to stir up someone's envy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — A change of heart might bring something to a beneficial conclusion. A generous nature means being willing to ignore unfounded misgivings and give someone the benefit of the doubt. Whatever shifts may be in your best interests to accept.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — A certain area of your budget might need some extra attention. Be sure the bills are paid and your household tasks are completed before you head off for an evening of fun. Spend time with an affectionate companion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Trust can grow when you spend time with faithful and reliable people. Some intense and illuminating discussions may bring you closer to romantic or business connections. Leave the house looking clean and polished.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Don't exclude someone based on unrealistic expectations. But do be intentional about who you allow to become part of your life. The force of your convictions can help you experience long term stability.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A solid relationship should fit like a comfortable old shoe. A loved one might have some enjoyable entertainments planned. If you are a creative person or deal with the public, this could be a great time to shine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your life is like a canvas — take charge of your creation and paint a colorful and pleasing life for yourself. Focus on developing worthy goals and expressing yourself fully. Exercise self-discipline about spending habits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Do your best and do your duty. If you apply yourself diligently to every obligation, you don't need to feel guilty at the end of the day. Don't rearrange your budget to buy something to impress someone.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Someone who is usually quiet or timid might get up the nerve to approach you, be gracious and take some time to get to know them more. However, be especially cautious about sharing any confidential information now.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Your leadership abilities should be in top form so strive to be a role model for others. Your partner or a loved one may feel a need for excitement and suggest an unusual adventure. Avoid exchanging sharp words with coworkers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — A conversation could shed light on partnership issues or bring your deepest desires into sharp focus. You may worry that making disclosures can cause setbacks, but everything should work out for the best.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Rigidly adhering to a schedule might make you stressed and less sensitive to other people's needs, even if it produces desired results. Add some thoughtfulness to your self-discipline For the very best results.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Some inner reflection may help you understand your priorities and options.. You might be ready to abandon old-school methods and should find the best innovations. Mixed messages could cause problems with work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Do not allow a partner or loved one to undermine your confidence by voicing their doubts; this is only someone's opinion and not some kind of destiny. Your astute handling of financial affairs should be impressive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Someone may rub you the wrong way or bring out your worst side. Don't dampen your chances by reacting or changing your plans too quickly. A consistent effort can make an ongoing project and workday run more smoothly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22.) — This could be a time to let other people call the shots. Someone who wants to exercise control will probably not get in the way if you want to relax or socialize once your part is done. Cooperate with others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — A revelation could alter your views. A partner or loved one might be agreeable to a change that will allow you to proceed with a plan. Purchases or property disputes may need to be handled with great care.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You can be the winner on any playing field by being faster and nimbler than the competition. Play fair and avoid arguments and disagreements. Your work could become the center of some social activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Straightforward strategizing can lead you to the head of the class. Those with powerful plans may inspire you. You may work on projects that require dedication, relentless effort and sparks of creative genius.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20- Feb. 18) — Whenever duties and responsibilities are on your schedule, your self-discipline and persistence are activated. Friends and family might cheer you up and changes you have dreamed of making can now be accomplished.

PISCES (Feb. 19- March 20) — Take time to reflect. Once you understand what is going on beneath the surface, it should be easier to overcome obstacles. Getting along with others may require you to exercise patience and to control impulsive behavior.

Edey's double-double powers No. 24 Purdue past West Virginia

BY SEAN HIGHKIN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PORTLAND, Ore. — Zach Edey had 24 points and 12 rebounds to lead No. 24 Purdue to an 80-68 victory over West Virginia on Thursday night in the opening round of the Phil Knight Legacy tournament.

Mason Gillis added 14 points for the Boilermakers (4-0), and Brandon Newman came off the bench to score eight points.

Erik Stevenson scored 17 points as the Mountaineers (3-1) lost for the first time this season. Joe Toussaint added 16 points off the bench.

The Boilermakers took a 43-32 lead into halftime. Edey led the way with 12 first-half points.

"I thought he had an average game," Purdue head coach Matt Painter said of Edey. "He's a really good player. One of the best players in the country. When you get 24 and 12 and you had an 'average' game, that's pretty cool."

The Mountaineers cut into the Boilermakers' lead with a 9-0 run late into the second half, closing within four points before Braden Smith knocked down a 3-pointer with five minutes left to give Purdue a seven-point edge. That was the closest West Virginia got.

Stevenson scored six straight points to help West Virginia keep pace early in the second half, but exited the game at the 13-minute mark with an apparent leg injury. He checked back in with four minutes remaining.

"We were 4-0 because we were better," West Virginia head coach Bob Huggins said. "We still didn't execute. We turned the ball over at a very alarming rate and we refused to rebound it."

Purdue outrebounded West Virginia 34-32 and shot 47.1% from 3-point range (8 for 17).

West Virginia played solid defense, forcing 18 turnovers, but couldn't get its shots to fall, going 5 for-22 (22.7%) from beyond the arc.

BIG PICTURE

Purdue: The Boilermakers handled an unranked West Virginia team to stay undefeated and advance to the PKL semifinals.

West Virginia: The Mountaineers picked up their first loss of the season at the hands of a ranked opponent.

Towns powers streaking Timberwolves past Pacers

BY PHILLIP B. WILSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Karl-Anthony Towns scored 23 points — nine of them in a row in a key third-quarter run — and the Minnesota Timberwolves beat the Indiana Pacers 115-101 on Wednesday night.

Minnesota has won five in a row, four of them on the road, to improve to 10-8. Indiana had a five-game winning streak snapped to drop to 10-7.

"I just felt it was important to press the gas," Towns said about the third quarter. "They came out third quarter with a little bit of fire in them so I wanted to do what I could do to extinguish that or at least match it."

The Pacers closed to a two-point deficit in the third quarter when Towns had the nine-point run as part of a 13-point quarter, after which the Timberwolves led 87-77. The Pacers were never within six points after that. Towns also had 11 rebounds and eight assists.

"That team was playing amazingly well and we came in with a lot of respect for them but not intimidated," Towns said. "If they were going to beat us, we felt like they've got to beat us playing our best."

All five Timberwolves starters scored in double digits. Rudy Gobert had 21 points and 16 rebounds, Anthony Edwards 19 points, Jaden McDaniels 18 and D'Angelo Russell 15 points and 11 assists.

"It's been fun, every night we try to set the tone," Gobert said of the inside play. "I thought Karl did an amazing job."

Shawe holds off Medora to win boys opener 59-54

BY JORDAN BEAR

Philip Kahn hit a 3-pointer with 50 seconds left to put Shawe on top and the Hilltoppers held on for a 59-54 win over the Medora Hornets in an exciting season opener for both teams Tuesday.

Shawe, which has never lost to Medora, led by as many as 12 points before the Hornets rallied to tie the game at 51-51 late in the fourth. The Hilltoppers kept their composure and Kahn drained the 3-pointer to give them the lead for good. Shawe then hit its free throws down the stretch to ice the win.

"I told them, they're going to make a run, and you have to be prepare to respond to the run," Shawe coach Dan Hambrick said. "I told them you have to withstand it. It got close but I'm happy with how we closed late. We had a great crowd tonight, and I think that helped our boys get those key shots."

Shawe (1-0) led virtually the entire way through the first three quarters but other than late in the third, never felt comfortable. The Hilltoppers only had a 19-15 lead after the first quarter and the game stayed relatively close in the second quarter before Shawe hit a few shots late to grab a 34-26 lead heading into the half.

Shawe appeared to pull away in the third quarter after a 3-pointer by Wyatt Nichter gave the Hilltoppers a 40-28 lead halfway through the period. However, a timeout allowed the Hornets to regroup and Medora cut the lead to 49-42 heading into the final period.

The fourth quarter was the big one for Medora (0-1) which went on an 8-2 run to start the quarter to tie the game at 51-51. The Hornets went to their big man, Shepard Earl, who dominated the post all game and the Hilltoppers simply had no answer for him. It was Kahn that finally stopped the bleeding with his trey that kick-started the final push.

While Hambrick was happy to begin the season with a win, he also knows that his team has to do a better job of closing out victories.

"When you get a team down by 12 points at any point of the second half, you have to put them away," Hambrick said. "You need to extend that lead to 16 points or 18 points and suddenly it's a little easier. They hit some key shots, but that is something we need to learn because next time we may not be as fortunate."

Kahn started the season with a bang, scoring 29 points, one shy of his career-high. Davis Grote added 12 points and Eric Liu had 10 for the Hilltoppers, which was the key to victory according to Hambrick.

"Philip is going to get his points, but we have to get other guys to get into double figures as well," Hambrick said. "Teams are going to focus on Philip and if we can get Davis, Eric, Wyatt, and others to start being consistent on offense then we will be fine."

Earl finished with 27 points to lead Medora.

Shawe returns to action on Saturday night when it heads down State Road 62 to take on New Washington. The Hilltoppers then head to Southwestern next Friday for its Ohio River Valley Conference opener.

No. 15 Kentucky routs North Florida behind Toppin's 20

BY KEITH TAYLOR
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Jacob Toppin had a second straight breakout performance.

Toppin scored a career-high 20 points and had 10 rebounds to help No. 15 Kentucky rout North Florida 96-56 on Wednesday.

Toppin had a previous career high of 16 points in an 88-72 loss at No. 6 Gonzaga on Sunday.

"As the season goes along, I'm getting more confident," he said. "That's because of my teammates. I'm not worried about scoring right now, I'm more worried about defense and rebounding and the offense will come. I knew (my offense) would come."

The Wildcats (4-2) easily recovered from the loss at Gonzaga to win their 23rd consecutive home game against an unranked opponent.

"After a loss a loss, we always want to bounce back," Toppin said. "I think we did a good job of that."

Kentucky coach John Calipari liked the way the Wildcats responded following two losses in a six-day span last week.

"I'm not happy that we lost two games," Calipari said. "I want to win every game I coach. We gave one away (Michigan State) and the other I knew would be hard for us to win (at Gonzaga). .. When it started the way it started and we couldn't make a shot, it got ugly."

Ten players scored for the Wildcats, with three starters reaching double figures. Oscar Tshiebwe had a second double-double of the season with 16 points and 15 rebounds. Antonio Reeves finished with 20 points. Toppin did most of his scoring in the second half with 12 points.

In his first start of the season, Reeves, an Illinois State transfer, scored 18 points in the first half and made four of Kentucky's seven 3-pointers, including two in consecutive fashion. Reeves hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer to close an impressive performance in the first half.

""It felt great," Reeves said. "(I was) feeling comfortable. The team got me involved in the game. The rim got bigger for me. I just kept shooting the ball."

Jarius Hicklen led the Ospreys (1-4) with 17 points.

BIG PICTURE

Kentucky: After dropping 11 spots in the Top 25 following two losses in six days last week, the Wildcats began a climb back toward the Top 10. The Wildcats have will play four of their next seven games at home. Kentucky continues to play unselfishly and finished with 23 assists and were averaging 19 per game entering the contest. Kentucky had nine blocks, led by freshman Ugonna Onyenso with four to go along with 10 rebounds, both career highs.

North Florida: The Ospreys have played only one home game through their first six games. North Florida's lone win was a 72-66 triumph over South Carolina State at home on Nov. 19. Following road games at High Point (Dec. 3) and Houston (Dec. 6) to open December, North Florida will close out the calandar year with four home games.

HOMECOMING

North Florida senior Carter Hendricksen made a return to Lexington and finished with seven points. Hendricksen led Lexington Christian to two district titles and a Class A state title in 2018 during a stellar prep career. Hendricksen entered the contest as the team's second-leading scorer, averaging 14.5 points per game.

World Cup: US frustrates England to scoreless draw

BY JAMES ROBSON
AP SOCCER WRITER

AL KHOR, Qatar — Loud jeers rang around the stadium. England's fans were not happy. The United States had frustrated them yet again at a World Cup.

That's three times and counting that the teams have met on soccer's biggest stage and England is still waiting for its first win against the Americans after a 0-0 draw on Friday.

Coach Gareth Southgate had reminded his players of that record beforehand, with the U.S. famously winning 1-0 in 1950 and playing out a 1-1 draw in 2010.

They didn't seem to heed his warning and didn't respond to Gregg Berhalter's young and energetic team.

England beat Iran 6-2 in its opening game in Qatar to justify its status as one of the tournament favorites.

But it could consider itself fortunate not to have dropped another match to the U.S., after Christian Pulisic hit the crossbar with a first-half strike and Weston McKinnie lifted a shot over from eight yards out.

The England fans had turned up at the Al Bayt Stadium in anticipation of celebrating a win and qualification to the knockout stages with a game to play.

"I want our fans at home to have a smile on their faces and we haven't quite managed to achieve that," Southgate said.

"But people are going to react how they react and I can't let that affect how I feel about the team or how the team feels.

"The objective is to qualify and we have three games to do it."

Frustrating England is one thing. But Berhalter's job is to advance to the knockout stages.

The draw sets up a match for the U.S. against Iran on Tuesday for a spot in the round of 16.

Iran beat Wales 2-0 earlier and sits second in Group B with three points, one more than the Americans.

"It sets up our first knockout game of the World Cup," Berhalter said. "We win or we're out of the World Cup. That's going to be the focus for us while we are preparing the team for the next game.

"But most importantly, understanding the intensity Iran is going to bring. They played an excellent game today. Played with ton of spirit will have to be up for it if we want a chance to advance."

Southgate, meanwhile, will try to lift his players. He described them as dejected following the elating win against Iran.

And despite the boos, England is still top of the group with four points.

"It wasn't the best performance, for sure," said Harry Kane, who came close to scoring with a stoppage-time header. "Good spells with the ball, but we didn't quite have the final product.

"We had two or three opportunities and didn't put it away."

KANE WAIT

Kane, Golden Boot winner from the 2018 World Cup, is still looking for his first goal at this tournament.

MUSAH MISS

Yunus Musah, who chose to represent the U.S. over England, showed exactly what Southgate is missing out on with a dominant midfield performance.
